

BRAIN SCAN & SCREENING

PROTECTING YOUR BRAIN BEGINS WITH UNDERSTANDING

- ✓ You have a desire to identify areas of opportunity for you to maintain your brain health and wellness. Your goal is to get a functional picture of how your brain is wired, what you can do to support its function, and changes you can make to help keep your brain strong in the future.
- ✓ You are noticing brain changes and/or dysfunction that is or is not leading to difficulties in day-to-day tasks and activities. Your goal is to identify why you are noticing these changes and what you can do to improve them or reverse them.
- ✓ You are living with a neurological diagnosis (i.e. mild cognitive impairment, ADHD, dementia, sensory processing difficulties, etc) and you want to know if there are factors that are making your function worse. Your goal is to identify the functional factors affecting your performance and work on reversing the factors that are adjustable to help you stabilize your condition.

EVOKE EVOX BRAIN SCAN:

A QEEG scan of the brain evaluates how your brain is working by measuring the brain's flow of electrical energy. This provides a better understanding of what may be causing your symptoms. During the scan, you wear a cap and complete a series of simple exercises on a computer while your brain activity is recorded.

The benefit of the scan is that it is a pain-free way to identify areas of opportunity for improved brain health in the future or root causes of your current symptoms to help your therapist personalize your treatment.

FUNCTIONAL SCREENING & RECOMMENDATIONS:

Paired with the scan, our specialized therapists walk you through a holistic screening of brain health and wellness. Education is then provided to explain your specific needs based on results and what you can do to support or stabilize brain health in the future.

NOTE: Scan and screening is not a definitive diagnostic tool. It is used to help identify functional areas of improvement to help strengthen your brain and promote best ability to function. Collaboration with your medical team can then lead to a diagnosis if that is your intent or desire.
